School board member to step down

NANCY THOMPSON-CANDEE

By Steve Marschke

There will soon be an unanticipated opening on the Washington Unified School District school board.

Nancy Thompson-Candee, a member of the five-person board since mid-1994, planned to tell the board and public last night that she was resigning her position effective in 60 days.

"I want to assure everyone the reason I'm resigning is I've taken a full time teaching job instead of a part-time teaching job, and I find I have no time for my family," she said when reached for comment yesterday. "I have to let something go."

Thompson-Candee stressed that she does not leave the school board because of any kind of rancor or disagreement with other board members.

"It's not an indication I'm unhappy with anyone," she stated. "It does not have anything to do with conflict."

Instead, she credits the current board members with making a serious effort to "work together in a spirit of cooperation" instead of the more colorful, argumentative style of politics in the board's recent past.

"I hope they can continue to have that spirit of cooperation," she said. "There are big decisions about facilities. I hope people can continue to work together."

Thompson-Candee teaches kindergarten in Dixon at the Silveyville Primary School.

Aside from her job, her family requires her attention, she said yesterday.

"I have a second grader, a sixth grader and a husband I want to spend time with. My term is up in November of 1998. I considered trying to hang in there and stay, but something had to give."

Southport Industrial Park plants its roots

■ Coming months will see beginning of first major structure at S.I.P. -- a 444,000 square foot warehouse to be built "on spec"

By Steve Marschke

Work has begun on the long-awaited, long-controversial Southport Industrial Park in West Sacramento, readying roads and other infrastructure to take advantage of the new bridge and begin accepting development.

"We've been building a first phase road across the property," said Dan Ramos, a spokesperson for the partnership involving Frank Ramos, Buzz Oates and owns the property. "The road heads out to the west (from the Jefferson Blvd. area) all the way across the Port property. We're trying to get a first phase of construction into our property, probably in the spring.

Among the first thing to go up above-ground will be a 444,000 square foot warehouse to be built on speculation, said Ramos.

And if that square footage number sounds familiar, it's for good reason. West Sacramento often celebrates the fact that it is the state's 444th city to incorporate.

"When the guys laid out the plans on the lot, the square footage happened to be close to that, so we told the guys to round it up and make it even," Ramos related.

He added that having the new Daniel C. Palamidessi Bridge in place connecting Industrial Blvd. to the southern area has helped spur interest in marketing the industrial park.

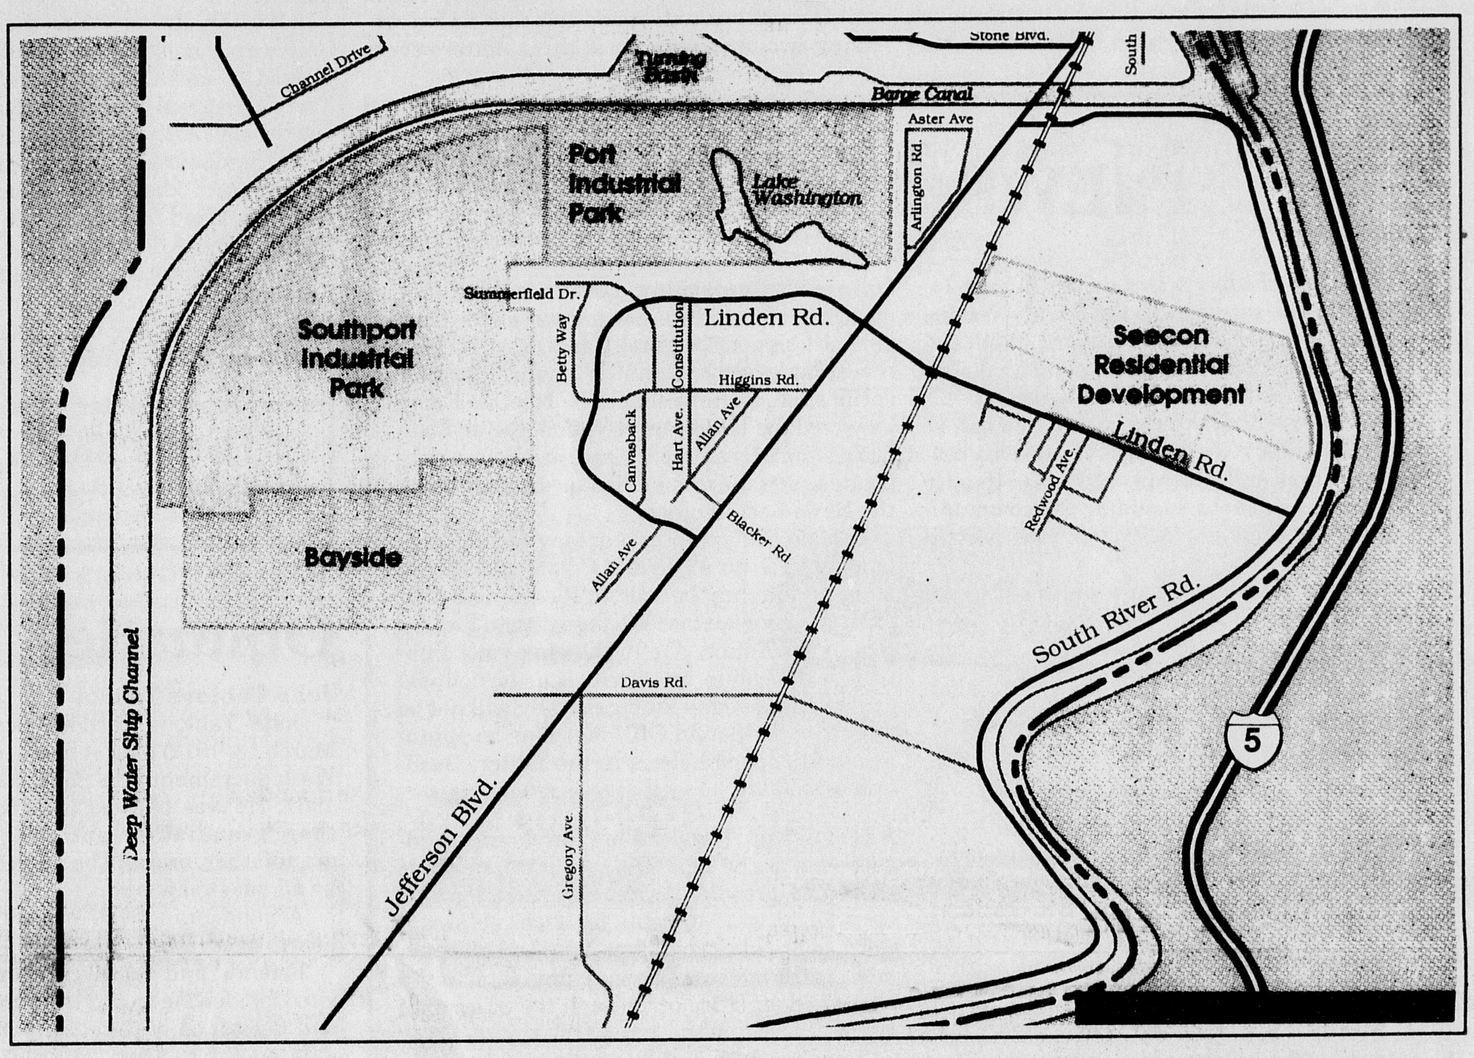

"It really means a lot to have the bridge up and be able to take builders across it," he said.

The development also includes areas slated for different types of industry, business park uses and even 30 acres of multi-family residential development where the industrial park property abuts the planned Gainsborough housing subdivision to its south. Developers have been in session with city officials in recent weeks moving some of the borders for these uses around by "mutual consent," said planner Steve Rikala of the West Sacramento Community Development Department.

The changes should benefit nearby residents such as those in the Summerfield Dr. area, said Rikala, by "moving heavy industry away and including more buffering along the reclamation district canal."

The planned industrial park was at the center of a 1990 city ballot measure questioning the construction of industry in Southport, but backers of the park fended off the challenge at the ballot box. Plans occurring at about the same time to place one of the world's largest paper recycling plants on the site later fell through.

The opening of the new bridge in July was expected to make it easier to market the property to potential users.

Distrust lingers over Jefferson Blvd. expansion issue

By Steve Marschke

The West Sacramento city general plan still calls for a six-lane road for Jefferson Blvd. between Marshall Road and the Club Pheasant restaurant in the Southport area. While this is interpreted by some residents as the attempted evasion of the popular will, which demands a narrower road, at least one city official says it's nothing of the sort.

"They went to six lanes and said it was a 'typo'," said Gary McReynolds, a Jefferson Blvd. resident who became angered at the council when he saw the six-lane reference in an agenda last week. "But they were trying to slide it through. As it stands, (the plan is for) four lanes, but I think they're still going to go for six lanes. They keep stalling."

McReynolds and many of his neighbors, who fear the city will take over some of their front yard property if a six-lane road is constructed on the Jefferson frontage, have protested the plan for about a year now. He says many of them are frustrated that there has been no clear resolution to the problem, despite what he said are instructions by Mayor Bill Kristoff to city staff to drop the six-lane idea.

Kristoff wasn't available for comment yesterday. But fellow city council member Wes Beers said that the city council has indeed heard loud and clear the public's cry against the wide-road proposal, and that it just takes time to go through the process of changing the master plan back to a four-lane road.

"The frustration I saw exhibited by some people in the audience of Wednesday's meeting was that they wanted this thing done today, with no questions asked," said Beers. "This requires an amendment to the general plan. Staff was directed by the city council to come back with a proposal to amend whatever documents are necessary to support a four lane proposal. As an interim measure, we adopted a resolution telling staff to no longer come up with any land 'takes' beyond what is necessary for a four-lane corridor of 100 feet."

The council is "unanimous" against the proposal to make the boulevard six lanes wide, he added.

"Staff is going through all the motions. The direction of the council is clear, the actions of the council and staff are clear, but there are steps we have to go through.

Beers said he has asked city staff to schedule a workshop as soon as they have all their information in order to support the new four-lane proposal. That workshop will probably take place in December, he said, and will also allow public input on a controversial proposal to place a median down the center of the same stretch of road.

"That was put back on the table," Beers said. "I just wish things could move faster."

McReynolds voiced his opposition to the median, saying the barrier would prevent people

City receives strong credit rating prior to bond sale

The West Sacramento Redevelopment & Housing Agency has announced that the city has scored an "A-" in a credit rating by Standard & Poors Rating Services (S&P).

The rating is "as good or better than any city of comparable size within the Sacramento region," said a city press release.

The city solicited the credit review as part of the process of issuing a $9 billion bond offering to finance a new city hall, community center, senior center and a Southport fire station.

The S&P rating estimates the city's ability to repay the bonds. Ratings are ranked with letters from "A" to "D," with "AAA" at the top and signifying virtually no risk for the bond investor.

"S&P looked favorably upon the stability of both the city council and senior city officials," said a city spokesperson. "They found extremely sound fiscal management practices."

Leigh Keicher, the city finance director, credited West Sacramento's conservative economic practices with the bond rating.

"We don't incur operating expenses beyond current revenues, we cut budgets when revenues don't meet expectations, and we keep the general fund free from debt except for public buildings," he was quoted in the press release.

Board members' cell phone bills

Billing records show that charges on cellular phones issued to two school administrators and two school board members were substantially higher than the $29-per-month flat fee quoted by superintendent Dr. Dennis Kelleher last week.

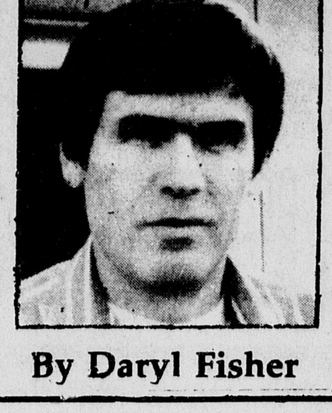

Board member Hal Williams incurred an average of $86.75 per month on the district cellular phone issued to him during the three months recently billed by AT & T Wireless Services. Fellow board member Ardeen Westvik incurred an average of $42.59 per month. Superintendent Kelleher used his phone for an average monthly bill of $113.07, and Assistant Superintendent Campbell incurred average monthly charges of $42.59.

Total charges for all four phones for the three-month period were $1,227.76.

Everyone should have a Nana who really loves them

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

In Vietnam, there were two things a soldier wanted to do every day. First, he wanted to avoid making any contact whatsoever with the enemy, and second, he wanted to receive at least one letter.

Mail call was everything and any day you got a letter from a loved one was a good day. Letters were the only tangible proof that someone back in the world still cared and that we hadn't been totally forgotten. They were also a status symbol. The more letters you got, the more envied you were, and for about six months while I was in Vietnam, no one in my platoon was more envied than Terry Roach.

Terry was a quiet, unassuming rifleman who had been in the platoon for more than a week before most of us even knew he was there. He was painfully shy and for the longest time he never spoke to anyone unless he was spoken to first. Even his physical features more or less blended into the surroundings. To be honest about it, no one much cared one way or the other about Terry Roach until rumors started circulating that he was receiving two, and sometimes three, letters every day. Not only that, but he was also getting packages filled with all kinds of goodies.

"Like what?" I finally asked the guy who bunked next to him.

"Cookies, candy, canned fruit, big old salamis, sunflower seeds, jars of honey, you name it. And get this -- most of his letters smell like they were postmarked in some French whorehouse, too."

It was definitely time to talk to the platoon's mail room clerk, who confirmed it was all true. "The guy may have the personality of a fence post," said the clerk, "but he's putting everyone around here to shame when it comes to getting letters and packages."

"Is it true the letters he gets are perfumed?" I asked.

"That's right," came the answer. "At least one every day is, and not with just some old ordinary stuff you can find anywhere, either. This is expensive, classy perfume. Hell, I spend most of my day sniffing that guy's letters."

"Maybe he has a sexy girlfriend or something?" I asked.

"In Wichita, Kansas?" said the clerk with a smile.

Anyway, a meeting was finally called and I was elected to make a herculean effort to become Terry's first real friend in Vietnam and it turned out to be a very rewarding task.

"You're supposed to find out about the perfumed letters, right?" he finally asked me after the second time I had invited him to attend the base's nightly movie with me.

"Yeah," I admitted. "We're all pretty jealous."

"Look, if I tell you, and you tell everyone else, they're all just going to be disappointed."

"Come on, Terry," I begged him, "we're all dying to know."

"Okay," he said, "I guess I'll tell you, but I'm not going to tell anyone else. If you want to, go ahead, but I really don't think it's anybody else's business. The perfumed letters, and the packages, all come from my Nana."

"Your Nana?" I said, shocked. "You mean your grandmother? You're putting me on, right?"

"Nope. I just happen to have the greatest grandmother in the whole world."

"But what about that sexy perfume on the letters?"

He smiled and said, "Well, when I was real young -- in grade school -- my parents busted up and I lived with my Nana for about seven years. Every morning, when she'd wake me up for school, the first thing I smelled was this incredible perfume she always wore and I really came to love it. I still do. All I have to do is take a little whiff of it and I think of her -- and of growing up happy and wanted. She knows that when I smell her perfume, I think of her -- and home."

"So there's no sexy girlfriend?"

"Nope, sorry. Just my Nana -- although she still thinks of herself as a pretty sexy lady."

About four months later -- after I had agreed to keep Terry's secret -- the perfumed letters and packages of goodies suddenly came to an abrupt halt. Everyone in the platoon was sure that Jody had struck again and that, like so many other girls with boyfriends in Vietnam, even Terry's sexy lady had tired of waiting and found someone else.

The truth turned out to be even sadder. Terry's beloved Nana had died of congestive heart failure at the age of seventy-eight.

Sports Insider

By Richard Novoa

The Giants and Dodgers had a classic series last week that brought back the love for baseball I had before the big baseball strike. The strike left a sour taste in my mouth that many fans can probably relate to.

The Giants swept a two-game series from the Dodgers, winning the first game 2-1, but had to go 12 innings to win the second game. The Giants now control their own destiny in winning the N.L. West Crown. The Giants finish the season at home with three games against the Padres, while Los Angeles has four tough games in Colorado against the Rockies.

How about Seattle's Ken Griffey Jr. and St. Louis' Mark McGwire chasing Roger Maris' record of 61 homers in one season? Now, that's great for the game of baseball!

The 49ers destroyed the Atlanta Falcons 33-7 last Sunday at 3 Com Park, but the Raiders did it again. They gave the game away! The Raiders should have won against the Jets, but their special teams missed an extra point, three field goals and had a fourth attempt blocked and returned for a touchdown!

Final score Raiders 22, Jets 23! But the Raiders did cover the Vegas spread (1 1/2 points).

This week, the 49ers are in tough against the Panthers, who beat them twice last year and won the Western division. This time, the 49ers will travel to Carolina for a big Monday night showdown before a national audience. Carolina (2-2) has been struggling to score points -- and who didn't lose at home last year -- has already lost twice at home this year.

The 49ers, who are favored by 3 1/2 points, will rise to the challenge!

49ers 31, Panthers 13.

The Raiders (1-3) return home next Sunday (1 p.m.) to face the lowly St. Louis Rams (2-2). If the Raiders don't win this game, the season is over! The Raiders play the Chargers (1-3) next week so they could end up 3-3 before their bye week!

Don Chargin's boxing show on Oct. 10 has been canceled because the main event contestant, Willie Jorrin, injured his left hand. The fight will be rescheduled for early November.

See ya next week!

J.V. Beats Dixon

River City's junior varsity football team scored first on a 20-yard run by Marshaun Tate, and Robert Cervantes ran the conversion to lead, 8 to 0.

In the third quarter, Cervantes scored on a 14-yard run and conversion failed to lead, 14 to 0. In the fourth quarter, Dixon scored on a 47-yard pass and kicked the conversion to trail, 7 to 14. Bears team beats Citrus Heights

From the West Sacramento Jr. Midget Bears

The West Sacramento Jr. Midget Bears rebounded from last week's defeat to blast the Citrus Heights Dolphins, 31 to 6. The win gives the Bears a 2-1 overall record as they strive to make this year's playoffs.

West Sacramento scored on their initial possession, driving 62 yards in 12 plays, culminating in a 20-yard touchdown pass from Rob Washington to Mike Fonbuena for an early 6 to 0 lead. After a defensive stop, highlighted by a Josh Bush quarterback sack, the Bears' offense once again mounted a long drive. Zeke Butcher capped the drive with a 35-yard burst off right tackle, behind Keith Fallon and Dave Maldonado, to give West Sac a 12 to 0 advantage.

The Bears' defense once again rose to the occasion as Richard Thompson recovered a fumble to put the Bears in scoring position. Nick Van Dyke's 10-yard scoring pass to Washington, set up by solid running from Sammy Acevedo, Anthony Galindez and Jamahl Mackey gave the Bears an 18-0 lead they carried into the halftime break.

The game Dolphins rebounded and scored on their opening drive of the second half to cut the deficit to 18-6. The Bears answered right back with another scoring drive of their own, as Anthony Hinojosa followed a Tommy Guerra block to score on a 20-yard touchdown romp.

Following a Washington interception, Steven Stephens iced the game with a 50-yard touchdown gallop behind the fine blocking of Adrian Romera and David Breese. Richard Alpers finished off the scoring by kicking the extra point for the final margin of victory.

The Bears continue their march towards the playoffs with what figures to be a tough game at the Highlands Wolfpack next Saturday at 11 a.m.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

Odds & ends

Last week's editorial dealt with exhorbitant fees charged by some automatic tellers, and in particular by those operated by Wells Fargo Bank at West Sacramento's two supermarkets. The fees apply to non-Wells Fargo transactions.

As one supermarket manager correctly pointed out, these fees are only charged at the ATM machines and not at the stores' cash registers, where people can use their ATM cards or credit cards for purchases.

That's a distinction that may not have been totally clear last week.

Area developer Buzz Oates, who has substantial interests in West Sacramento, threatened this month to pull out of future projects in Sacramento because he wasn't happy with how the planning department was treating him.

He has also in recent years threatened to pull projects out of the state of California, the city of Davis and the city of West Sacramento (which buckled at the threat). Just a little something to keep in mind.

With the expected resignation of one member of the school board imminent (as of press time), the board will have to make a decision whether to leave the position vacant, fill it by their own appointment, or hold a special election to fill the final year of the term.

The board should have five members, for the obvious reason that an odd number means less possibility of tied votes. But a special election would be a costly and time-consuming way of choosing a new member to serve until only November, 1998.

It would be better if the board can solicit interest and come to an agreement on appointing a fifth member to fill the term with a minimum of distraction from the business of the schools.

Guest commentary:

West Sac deserves a new look & a fair shake

By Michael C. Gorman
West Sacramento

I note the article in the Sacramento Bee Sports section on September 17, 1997, by R.E. Graswich, regarding plans to bring minor league baseball to West Sacramento. It was brought to my attention as soon as I stepped into my office that morning. "Did you see what the Bee said about West Sacramento this morning?" Another acquaintance from Sacramento called later that day with the remark that it "sure makes West Sacramento look bad."

What was most objectionable was the statement that "the area around I-80 and Reed [Avenue] has warehouses, transmission-repair shops, cheap motels, restaurants, liquor stores and barrooms." Those of us who know the area see the Highway Patrol Academy, KOVR-TV, California Veterinary Diagnostics, HealthCare Compare and a number of other new office buildings along with warehouses. We don't see cheap motels, liquor stores and barrooms. Graswich just doesn't have it right. But what concerns me most is that the Bee and some of its writers constantly want to heap trash on West Sacramento. And they are not alone...

Joe Serna feels that West Sacramento should stick to warehouses and let Sacramento have all the office buildings. More recently, he told reporters (his comments appeared again in the Graswich article) that he supports minor league baseball in West Sacramento only because it would open the market for major league baseball in the Capitol. We didn't miss his implication that a major league team in Sacramento would put a minor league team in West Sacramento out of business.

The Bee likewise published a major article about the Money Store building on the waterfront, slamming the architecture as more fitting the ancient Near East. It hadn't occurred to me to think of it as a Zigurrat -- I see it more in the form of a Central American step pyramid. But, now that they mention it, what a great blending of diverse cultural influences! Without getting closer than a couple of blocks away during construction, I even like the street entrance with its dominating archway. The real reason for the criticism is not the architecture, but the address.

The Sacramento Metro Chamber says that West Sacramento lacks the ability to successfully promote itself and should leave festivals to Sacramento. I note with curiosity that Channel 31 (were there others?) ran a Public Service Announcement this week advertising the Metro Chamber's Rice Festival at Cal Expo for the weekend of September 19-21. There is no such festival. But this advertisement resulted in a call from one of the performing groups scheduled for the West Sacramento Rice Festival October 4-5. The dance troupe's coordinator wanted to know if we had given her the wrong date and/or location. The Metro Chamber's mistake in giving the media that information was confusing and unfortunate.

The City of West Sacramento is at a crossroads. We can take the current opportunities for growth and development and use them to truly make West Sacramento a "Premier City," or we can continue to bow our heads in shame every time the Bee or other local media criticize us as dreamers, carpetbaggers, and upstarts. There is a struggle ahead no matter which way we go. Success will take cooperation. It will take partnership among the City government, local businesses and residents who want to be proud of our city.

The City Council's recent actions to support the City of West Sacramento International Rice Festival and to preserve the Broderick Fire Station are two signs that a new consensus is growing. Having referred to West Sacramento as my hometown since 1953, and part of a local family business since 1964, I welcome that consensus and challenge West Sacramento residents, local businesses, City government, civic and church groups to take the necessary steps, to get beyond short term self-interest, to work together to build a City in which we can all take deserved pride.

Will this latest article cause me to cancel my subscription to the Bee? No...that happened a long time ago.

Let us fish!

I, too, would like to fish at the Port but my wife is not able to walk long distances. The last time we were there the police made us leave. The Port should be open to the public who likes to fish.

I would pay a fee just to go fishing at the Port. I have lived in West Sacramento fifty-four years.

The more they read about fishing at the Port, they may open the gates.

Respecting rights

I appreciate the few "real" Americans, like Mr. Lowell, Mr. Frugoli and M. Miller, who write in your paper expressing their opinions. It isn't important that I agree with them, but it is important that this forum exists.

We have a government (whether Federal, State or Local) who think that POLICY and LAWS are based on Relative Morality. (You know, when my kids say, "Oh Dad, your old fashioned"). Morality has changed with the times. But this country was founded on ABSOLUTE MORALITY. It was founded on the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule. These laws still apply to today's society. They will never change. They still contain more wisdom than the 67,000 pages of new Federal Laws produced every year. (Just think how many State, County,and Local laws are produced each year). These Civil laws are a product of some special interest group trying to obtain a MONOPOLY.

The City broke the 8th commandment and the 10th commandment (Stealing and Coveting) when they used "imminent domain" to swindle the Broderick Market and possibly Mr. Frugoli's land. If Marna Miller's claims are true, someone broke the 9th commandment(false witness).

We the people of the United States have no King or Ruler. We elect representatives from our midst to administrate a limited government. Our only Sovereign is God Almighty. The Constitution is not about limiting the people but limiting our PUBLIC SERVANTS. (Key word: Servants.)

Rebuttal to Vince

Having read Mr. Vince Frugoli's full page ad in our local paper, I believe he deserves an answer.

Not being willing to part with the money for a full page ad, maybe the editor will print this anyway.

Mr. Vince Frugoli has been very unhappy with our duly elected City Council, or at least some of the members. This weeping, wailing, sniveling and bitter complaining has been going on for a long time now. I, for one, am tired of it.

Mr. Frugoli, our City Council members are elected to serve the citizens of our city to the best of their ability. They are doing that in a very satisfactory manner, or they would not have been re-elected.

In a democracy, there are times when maybe a few people cannot always have their way. This is for the benefit of the vast majority and the way it should be. I am sure there are still places where a person can do just about anything they want with their property, regardless of the eyesores and blight they maintain or create. West Sacramento is not one of them, thanks to a City Council that is looking to the future.

Most, if not all, of the examples you site as being shafted by the redevelopment agency should never have been established to begin with. They were a bunch of reasons West Sacramento got a bad reputation.

Mr. Frugoli, you should look around and see the positive things that have been accomplished since we became a city, and more things in the future. Maybe you could even put a full page ad in our local paper about them. I know I could.

City plans

At the Sept. 17 West Sac City Council meeting the subject of whether Jefferson Blvd. should be widened to 4 or 6 lanes surfaced its ugly head again. I thought 4 lanes with a 2-way left turn lane with various roadside rests had been agreed upon with Cal-Trans, et al. And the Palamidessi Bridge was supposed to make a big difference in eliminating the need for (any further talk of) 6 lanes. So why doesn't our engineering dept. remind Cal-Trans, et al about our 2nd bridge to/from our Southport area, emphasizing that changes in road signs can direct enough traffic to/from/thru Southport Industrial Park to give the Jefferson Blvd. a "B" rating at the outset.

Southport residents were also understandably disturbed when the subject of a center barrier -- rather than a 2-way left turn lane -- also surfaced again. The center barriers would prevent left turns on and off Jefferson Blvd. except at preplanned "exceptions," mostly corners now existing and those in the future master plan. Such barriers would dramatically reduce options of drivers, be they residents or customers/owners of businesses. Safety experts might argue that it is best to have all turns -- including U-turns -- at only fixed junctures. Imagine how things would be if turns were restricted in other areas. Since we're supposedly looking ahead into the 21st century, why put in barriers -- figuratively and literally speaking -- that we know will have to be torn down later? What happened to those "center-of-the-highway" angle bumps" that reminded drivers they were getting too close to the center line? Why not use those, or is that too simple? Again, we must remind Cal-Trans we now have our 2nd bridge to/from Southport and present 2-lane Jefferson Blvd. will have a twin added, with resurfacing of our old, slick bridge, bringing Jefferson Blvd. to 4 lanes there.

It was also stated that the plan was to have concrete sidewalks "up an down both sides of Jefferson Blvd." And then we talked of just one asphalt/blacktop sidewalk after complaints were made of so many residential areas lacking concrete sidewalks. But somehow those were...already paid for? (That confuses me!)

A rating is one thing. How well a widened, upgraded state highway through a mainly residential area will actually serve the people may be a totally different story. But if it is, the rating system should be re-rated to serve the people -- including those who do not drive vehicles (aka: public transit with more benches and shelters, of course.)

And one of these days, just maybe: When our Southport area is built up enough to cause significant smog to blow across the Sacramento River into William Land Park, those folks who objected so strongly to a Sutterville Road - Linden Road overcrossing, WILL INSIST ON HAVING THE VERY BRIDGE THEY HAVE HERETOFORE SO VEHEMENTLY OPPOSED! (That's why we should at least "put up on the drawing board" a sewage treatment plant with fumes that just might go to Land Park when southwest winds hit us! And with our own expanded sewage treatment plant, Sacramento could just take the more expensive route of running enlarged sewer lines for their Natomas area through their downtown area en route to their Elk Grove treatment plant, where West Sac's sewage may go one day if both sides can reach an agreement.) To dream the impossible dream...

Soroptimists readying for annual potpourri

From Soroptimist International of West Sacramento

Soroptimist International of West Sacramento are busy planning for their 21st Annual Holiday Potpourri Crafts Faire & Luncheon. This has become an annual happening in the West Sacramento community and many look forward to attending the event each year. The Crafts Faire is traditionally held on the first Saturday in November, which means that this year the Holiday Potpourri will be held on November 1. The event will be on the River City High School Campus and the site is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Admission to the Holiday Potpourri is free.

DOROTHY ADAMO, ready for the raffle

Soroptimist is a women's organization for business and professionals and our motto is "best for women." The West Sacramento Soroptimist have a reputation for working with and for their community. We do many service oriented projects, the most recent one being the furnishing of a soft interview room in the new police facility, which gives a victim a sheltered place to tell their story in a non threatening environment. $2,000.00 was given to graduating seniors this past year. The funds that are raised by the local Soroptimist organization goes toward support for Harper House Battered Women's Shelter, the Yolo County Children's Sexual Abuse Clinic, the John H. Jones Community Clinic of West Sacramento, and a variety of senior citizen activities. Many other worthwhile groups receive Soroptimist support. The Holiday Potpourri is the organization's major fundraising for the year and all of the money earned from the event is spent on projects in our community.

All of the merchandise that vendors offer for sale has been hand-crafted and you can find many unique and one-of-a-kind items for sale. Many of our vendors have been with the Craft Faire for several years, but Soroptimist are always on the look-out for new vendors to make the event even more special. Anyone interested in seeking table space for the November 1 Craft Faire should contact Eva at 371-8126, or Lora at 590-0576.

Pictured is Soroptimist Dorothy Adamo, getting ready to sell raffle tickets. First prize is $100.00, donated by West Sacramento Land Company; second prize is $50.00 savings bond from First Northern Bank; and third prize is a $50.00 money hat, which Dorothy is modeling.

Chamber speaker will be Ward Connerly

From the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce

The West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce is proud to announce that Mr. Ward Connerly will be the featured speaker at the October General Membership luncheon and meeting. The luncheon is set for noon on October 9 and will be held at Cafe Vienna, 1229 Merkley Ave., in West Sacramento. Cost will be $13.00 for current Chamber members and $16.00 for non-members. The Chamber wants to stress that this meeting is always open to the general public and everyone is invited to enjoy not only a great speaker, but a tremendous meal at Cafe Vienna.

In 1996, Connerly served as the Chairman of the California Civil Rights Initiative (Prop. 209), a statewide ballot measure approved overwhelmingly by California voters to prohibit discrimination and preferential treatment based on race, gender, and ethnicity in public education, contracting and employment. Connerly is also a member of the Board of Directors of the California Chamber of Commerce and is Chairman of the California Governor's Foundation. A graduate of California State University, Sacramento, Connerly is a recipient of the Distinguished Service Award bestowed by his alma mater.

Bill Fairbairn, the new chamber executive director, is estimating a high turnout for this special event and is encouraging early R.S.V.P.s. They may be called in to the Chamber office at 371-7042.

NOT PRINTED OR MAILED AT LITTLE LEAGUE EXPENSE

TO ALL WASHINGTON LITTLE LEAGUE MEMBERS & SUPPORTERS:

Late last June, a parent who was upset with an umpire's call, wrote a Letter to the Editor of The West Sacramento Press asking where "all the money goes" that is earned by the snack bar and stating that I've pocketed that money to use on my house.

All snack bar revenue is and has always been used solely for the benefit of the League. All monies taken in by the snack bar go directly into the League's General Fund, which is used for restocking of the snack bar, equipment and supplies for our children in the League, and other necessary League expenses.

This last season, the snack bar took in $11,799.13, and $9,777.55 was spent restocking the snack bar, leaving a profit for the League of $2,021.58, of which $905.34 is a credit we've yet to receive from the Pepsi Company. The snack bar books are open for anyone who wishes to review them. If anyone has concerns and would like to review the books, please feel free to contact me at the number listed below. I would be happy to answer any questions you might have after you have reviewed them.

Because of the rumors generated by this letter, some people in the community have suggested that the election of the Board of Directors of the Washington Little League should be postponed this year. I say let's go ahead with the election, because that is the way it should be done. The elections will likely be held during the second week of October, and further details will follow.

Regardless of the outcome of this election, I encourage everyone to stay active in the League. I am honored to have been given the opportunity to help build this League, and I am proud of this community for pulling together to keep our children happy and safe.

Recently, we received a request of the mailing addresses and telephone number of the members of the League. I do not feel comfortable releasing this list because of privacy concerns. However, if you would like to communicate with the members of the League on any issue, please feel free to place your concerns in a letter in sealed and stamped envelopes. I will be happy to address and send the correspondence, and will send you verification upon mailing. Also, members of this community are always free to attend any of the open Board meetings. Feel free to contact me for dates and times.

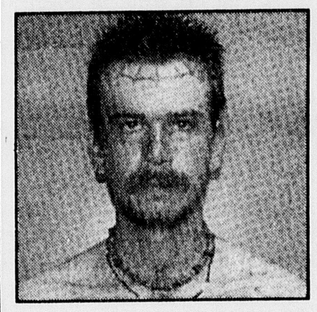

In the meantime, let's keep our eye on the ball, and pull together for our kids -- whether they are playing Little League, football, softball, basketball or swimming.

Thank you.

Transition students meet challenge

From the River City Transition Class, Summer 1997

18 River City High School freshman transition students recently challenged themselves to reach new heights at the Amador High School ropes challenge course.

"It was scary," Marina Afzali said, "but it was also fun!"

The challenge began with a focus on teamwork, playing games such as group juggling and chicken tag.

As students began to work together, to take risks, and to take care of each other, the activities grew increasingly more challenging.

The highlight of the day occurred when students were introduced to the high wire events where they set goals to challenge themselves by choice. For some, the challenge was simply to climb a 10-foot ladder. Others found a challenge in walking across a high wire 20-feet in the air.

For the more daring students, the goal was to stand atop a 35-foot telephone pole and jump to a trapeze hanging seven and one-half feet away.

"It was pretty cool," Ronnie Romero said of his climb to the top of the pole. "I was afraid to jump, though."

The transition program at RC is for students who are moving from eighth grade to ninth grade. The purpose of the program is to build trust, confidence, and self-esteem among students and teachers and to prepare students for high school life.

At the end of the day, students came away with a sense of accomplishment, knowing they had achieved their goals for the day.

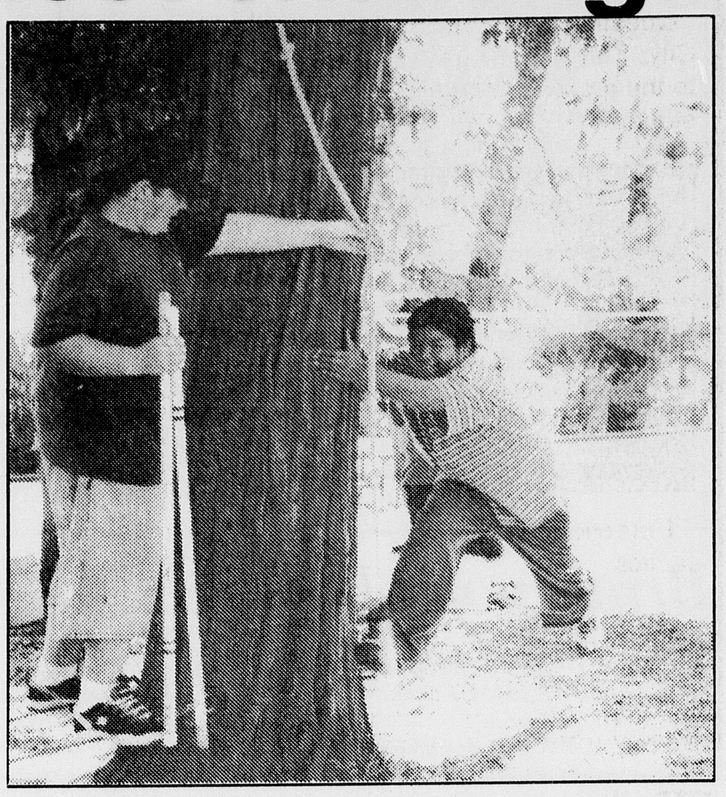

"It was so fun," Shawn Gibbons exclaimed. "I would recommend it to anyone!"

The transition program at RC is for students who are moving from eighth grade to ninth grade. The purpose of the program is to build trust, confidence, and self-esteem among students and teachers and to prepare students for high school life.

In addition to completing the ropes challenge course, students volunteered to serve lunch twice at Loaves and Fishes in Sacramento.

The students who participated in the transition program were Sarah Abel, Marina Afzali, Cassandra Conway, Victor Conway, Steven Fitzgerald, Christina Fragoso, Shawn Gibbons, Scott Gregson, Samir Kakar, Rachel Martinez, Rosa Ramirez, Ronnie Romero, Choy Saephan, Phillip Snow, Sabrina Stanhope, Romiro Stroud, Jason Treat, and Amber Watson.

The students were chaperoned by Mary Conway, a parent, Ronda Kuhn and Heather Richey, both transition teachers.

Phillip Snow and Scott Fitzgerald can't seem to get their feet on the ground at the Amador High ropes challenge course.

Students flip out over rally

By Irene Hernandez
Staff Writer

With "Lean On Me" playing in the background, a flood of orange flowed across the track, and passed by the underclassmen. As in every first rally of the year the seniors walked and showed their spirit continuing in the RC tradition.

River City went back to the beach for the annual fall sports rally. The football, volleyball, and soccer coaches pumped up the crowed for what is going to be an exciting year.

Each class did a skit to a beach song from the Beach Boys, such as "Lets Go Surf'n," and "Good Vibrations." Highlights of the skits were the gymnastic talents of Jeff Colbert-Ware and Jill Braden. Funniest skit honors had to go to the cross-dressers of the senior class, whom I will leave nameless (you know who you are).

As always, the cheerleaders did a great performance. They were very well synchronized. The whole routine was done very precisely.

By the end of the rally a winner had to be picked. The judges had to look for each class's politeness, behavior, decoration with class colors, winners of the games, and participation. The class with the most points was the seniors. Juniors, sophomores, and freshmen were close behind with a three-way tie. Asked how she felt about the win, senior Angela Kasting said "We worked hard for three years, and when it came down to it we won."

We seem to be off to a good year. Keep up the good work, and don't forget to cheer for your class. The next rally is on October 3 after fourth period for Homecoming. See you there.

Senate discusses overcrowding

By Simone Sumeshwar
Staff Writer

Among the many issues discussed at this year's first Student Senate meeting, our overcrowded halls topped them all.

The River City Student Senate agreed that this year's 400 plus incoming freshmen have really made an impression on our time.

Students offered a variety of solutions to the overcrowding. Some thought of adding a bar in the middle of the main hallway directing north and south, or maybe signs pointing in those directions to make our trips through the halls a little faster.

And then the issue of the cafeteria was discussed. It seems to be taking about 20 minutes to get lunch these days, but not for long. A new line will be added to the lunch bar, and there is talk about adding a new snack bar.

In the meantime, let's make things easier for each other by being a little more polite, as in not stopping in the hallways to talk.

Raider scores

Football

The freshman team lost its first game against Marysville 31-6 but won against Colfax 16-14.

The jv team won its first game against McClatchy 42-20 and its second game against Dixon 20-7.

Varsity football is zero and two, losing 32-22 against McClatchy and 55-6 against Dixon.

Volleyball

The freshman volleyball team is zero and one.

The jv volleyball team is one and six.

The varsity volleyball team is two and four.

Soccer

The RC soccer team has played 11 games, losing four and winning seven.

RC population reaches 1376

By Jennifer Cranfield
Staff Writer

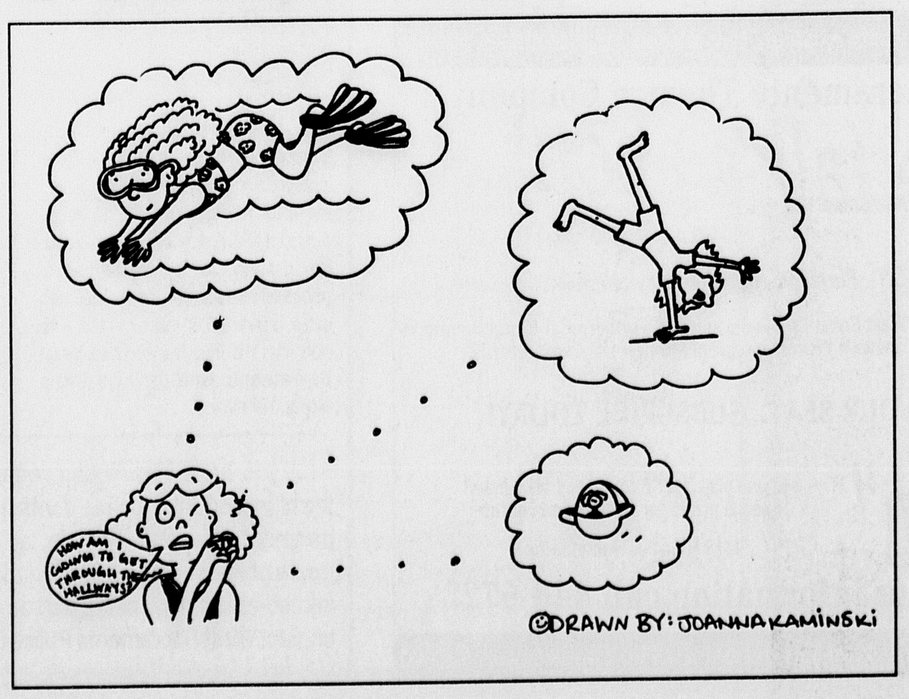

River City High School started the year off to a different beat, the beat of 1376 new students stomping through the halls. Every forty-seven minutes they embark upon new classes, which are extremely crowded because there are more students than space. Ardene Westvik, School Board President, said that the housing situation is not the reason for this boom in students. Some low-income housing has been built, but that mainly affects the elementary schools, not River City directly.

Not only has River City grown, but so has the district as a whole. 366 new students have either enrolled or transferred to the Washington Unified School District and those numbers change literally every day.

There's no answer to why the class of 2001 is so gigantic, and that's part of the reason why we have such crowded halls and stuffy classrooms. There's also new immigration and students choosing to return to River City, perhaps because we were named a Distinguished School.

One suggested resolution is a bond issue, which would enable the School Board to build a new high school to accommodate the rise in students in the future. Mrs. Westvik commented, "The School Board can only plan. The community has to vote."

A bond issue has to receive a 2/3 majority to pass. Two recent bond issues have failed, maybe because the community didn't bother to vote, or because they don't realize what an impact their vote has on the future of West Sacramento.

A warm welcome to a new school year

From Dr. White

Welcome to the 1997-1998 school year. River City High School is a California Distinguished School which offers outstanding opportunities to all students both in and out of the classroom. The Renaissance spirit that exists at River City High School will encourage and challenge you to achieve your best in everything you do in life. Every student must assume the individual responsibility to do his or her best academically, be a positive citizen, and to always be considerate and respectful of other individuals. This attitude is the spirit of Renaissance and the reason River City High School is a distinguished school comprised of distinguished and special people.

You are the most important part of this school. Without you the school would cease to exist. Be honest, carry your fair share of the load, and above all, apply yourself to the task at hand. Our expectations will be high, but they will not be unreasonable or unfair. No matter how difficult you might find some of the challenges at River City, the future holds an even greater and more difficult one. If you leave River City well prepared, it will make those future challenges that much easier to meet and overcome.

Our goals for this year include:

Academic Achievement -- all students doing their best in all of their classes.

Attendance -- everyone here, on time, to all of their classes.

Attitude -- everyone making us proud to be a Raider!

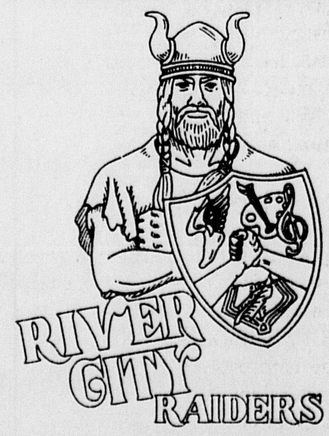

I challenge you to catch the Renaissance spirit and step forward as a part of River City High School and MAKE A DIFFERENCE!

Welcome Back, Raiders!

Question in the Quad

Question in the Quad is back from a long summer vacation and ready for another long, crowded year at River City. This month's question is "What do you do in the crowded halls to get from class to class?" in response to the growing number of students. As you can see, we have some interesting responses from a wide variety of students.

No more River City Fashion Show

By Ailysha Taylor
Staff Writer

1997 is the year for short skirts, cute little tops, platform shoes, fishnet pantyhose, spaghetti straps, hip huggers and tank tops. All summer long, everywhere you turned, every mall, every corner, some female was wearing one of these or had it painted on, but now its back to school and the hoochie mama gear must go!!

Remember freshmen, sophomores, and juniors, the name of the school is not River City Fashion Show; it's River City High School. I'm sure you want to look your best for the opposite sex, but how cute are you really going to look in your brand new 501's and top if you don't know whether to scratch your watch or wind your butt?

There is nothing wrong with looking nice if you have the means, but people should know there are limits. Pay less attention to where the girl next to you got her size 5 jeans and more to the person in the front of the classroom, who really isn't talking just for her health.

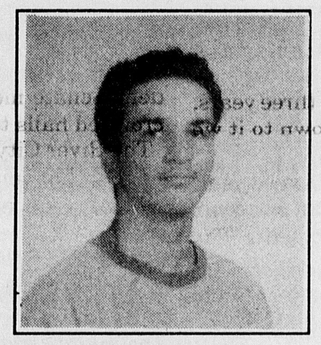

The year is 1997 and it's time for education, plans for the future, and better times ahead. Wearing TOO much makeup and dressing grown will only wear out your body before its time. Besides, the main outfit that should be on everyone's mind comes with its own hat and tassle.

Friends and family mourn the loss of sophomore Masood Sameyee

By Sultan Yusufzai
Staff Writer

This past summer River City High School lost one of its brightest and best students. Masood Sameyee was involved in a tragic car accident with a truck. The results proved to be fatal. Masood was killed and one of his cousins, senior Joe Dastagirzada, was critically injured. The accident occurred on the evening of the graduation. After the graduation Masood and his cousins were on their way to a party. As they turned at a "T" intersection a truck with a drunk driver smashed into them. In the collision, Masood was thrown out of the car through a side window. Joe is recovering at home, and is expected to return to River City later in the semester.

Masood Sameyee was a sophomore anxiously looking forward to his junior year in high school. Along with being a very academic individual he was also involved in many athletic events. He played football for the River City Raiders until he broke his arm. When he joined the basketball team he injured his leg. These injuries symbolize what a hard worker he really was. When he wanted to do something he gave it his best.

Masood Sameyee
1980-1997

"Masood was a member of my freshman football team and was enrolled in my P.E basketball class. His passing was a tragic loss. I found Masood to be a very polite, hard working young man, with a sense of humor. My heart goes out to his family and friends," stated Coach Baker compassionately.

Those who knew Masood personally, including myself, knew what kind of a person he was. He was a generous person who put other people's needs in front of his own. Anyone that truly knew Masood could tell that success was in store for him in the future. All his dreams and hopes for the future were dreadfully taken away due to the lack of responsibility of one reckless driver.

Masood's departure from this world to the next has left a great void in everyone's hearts, from his friends and family to River City High School. I have personally felt this emptiness in my heart. Masood Sameyee was not just one of my best friends, but like a brother to me. As I walk through the hallways of River City I know and always will know deep in my heart that there is a special person missing.

Editor's Note: If you wish to donate to a Linden Park bench in honor of Masood Sameyee, please make a check to: The City of West Sacrmento Memorial Bench Fund. Please mail checks to The City of West Sacrmento, Department of Parks and Community Serivces, P.O. Box 159, West Sacramento, California 95691.

No one is really weird

By Lisa Galvez
Staff Writer

The other day my friend and I were discussing what the word weird really meant. At the time I really didn't think much about it, but now that discussion has been on my mind. What really is weird? Who decides what weird is? And how do you know if you're weird or not?

With school starting back up here at River City, there are a lot of new people with a lot of new faces, styles, personalities, and, oh yeah, let's not forget new hair colors. So I was thinking what might seem weird to someone may seem totally normal to somebody else.

That brings me to the question: Who decides what weird is? Are we called weird because of our own styles or personalities, or do people call other people weird because they just don't understand or don't have an explanation for what they see.

Well, now, I need a definition for "weird". So who better to give that than old Webster? "Weird- Supernaturally mysterious or fantastically strange." Well, don't get me wrong, I've seen a lot of different people, but I've never seen anyone who was supernaturally mysterious or fantastically strange. Now that I think about it, who the heck is Webster and how did he get that definition?

Now for my final questions in my search on what weird really is. How do we know if we're weird or not? Are we weird because we don't all look alike, or dress the same? No, of course not. Nobody is really weird. We're all just different. Difference is what makes the world go 'round, and can you imagine what the world would be like if everyone was the same ....boring!! So the next time you are called weird consider it a compliment to your very own individuality.

Rishi's Rhetoric

This school is too crowded! I know this isn't exactly the most profound statement in the world, but it is one of the most truthful. As enrollment in RC continues to rise, more and more students find themselves in a school unequipped to handle them.

The school continues to operate using the older model for organizing the day. Seven periods, five-minute passing periods, and a forty-minute lunch. Unfortunately, this model may no longer be feasible in this school's environment.

Some students are finding that a five-minute passing period is just not enough time. Shobna Kumar, a senior and honors student at RC, is one of them. She has AP English second period in room 42. After class, Shobna must go clear across the campus to room 95. But this isn't the end of it. Fourth period, she must cross the campus again to room 61 for Physics.

According to Shobna, she practically has to run between second, third, and fourth period. She can't get a drink of water, go to the bathroom, get into her locker, or even talk to anyone without the risk of being tardy. This alone is a problem, but it is compounded by other existing rules at the school.

If Shobna needs to use the bathroom after second period, what does she do? She can't do it during passing time because she will be late. She can't ask for a bathroom pass during class because "that's what passing time is for." The same situation is true if she is thirsty, or needs something from her locker.

When Shobna leaves second period and third period, she does not have time to sit in her desk for a short time and get all of her stuff together. Instead, she must immediately get up and get across the campus. This means that she must get all of her stuff together during class time. How many teachers have you heard saying, "Don't rustle your things before the bell rings"?

The problems Shobna faces every single day are not hers alone. They are faced by many students who must endure a crowded hallway and no bathroom breaks. Unfortunately, as the school gets larger our problems will only get worse.

Public education is designed to welcome all students from every background into an educational environment, and I sincerely hope it remains that way. However, River City is being impacted by the growing number of students who are enrolling. Perhaps now is the time for the community to wake up and pass a bond measure to build a new high school.

A good Guernsey cow will produce more than one thousand gallons of whole milk and cream a year. This is enough to feed a family of two adults and three children, with ample skimmed milk left over to feed a veal calf, a pig, and a flock of chickens. An addtional bonus is more than fourteen tons of manure for the spreading.
